[redacted] Most of the work of the IEC dealt with electronic surveillance of domestic radical groups and individuals. [redacted] stated initially that she cannot now recall specific groups or individuals who were subject to electronic surveillance. However, when asked whether the name [redacted] was familiar to her, she stated that she recalls making telephone calls [redacted]. She stated that she cannot now recall to whom the calls were made or what specifically they were about. She stated that the calls most likely [redacted] were made at the direction of either DOHERTY or [redacted] depending upon when the calls were made. She further advised that the name LESLIE GELB was familiar to her from her work with IEC but that she could furnish no specific information concerning GELB.
